He was a brother-in-law of Mr. D. B. Fletcher of the county.

Besides his aged father he leaves a devoted wife, two sisters and a large number of relatives and friends, who sincerely mourn his untimely death.

The remains were interred at Bethany Cemetery yesterday.

Peace to his memory.

AWFULLY DRY.

Some Parts of Mason County an Arid Waste of Desert Land.

Many reports have come to this city of late of the lack of water in the county, especially in and around Washington.

The people believed some of the reports to be exaggerations, but it turns out that they were true.

Yesterday a man by the name of Williams drove into the city from a point beyond Washington with a wagonload of empty barrels and filled them at the river. He says that no rain of any consequence has fallen on his place or anywhere near him this summer, and that stock and humanity alike are suffering greatly.

Much sickness is now prevalent throughout his section, caused by the impure water the people are compelled to use.

A good rain would be a very welcome visitor to the county.

Does It Pay To Buy Cheap?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles.

What shall you do to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible, if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with successful results and long tradition.

"Bosch's" cure is not only a lung and throat stimulant, it is a tissue destroyer, germ destroyer, but also a inflammation, soothes every expectation, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. For sale by J. C. Fecor.

THE NOVELTY CLUB

The Novelty Club is a social organization composed of members whose desire is to entertain in so novel a way as to give pleasure from features entirely new.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Philster are members, and it being their turn, the event took place last evening aboard the beautifully kept and just returned from the Marine Ways steamer Laurence.

About twenty-five persons accepted the proffered invitation and at 8 o'clock the ropes were loosed and from her mooring the steamer slipped away down the Belle River with the moon silencing the Eastern hills.

A very fine orchestra had been stationed in the room aft and from first to last discoursed all the popular and sweet airs of the day.

The balmy breezes were in striking contrast to the sultry heat of the city and while the trip lasted no knowledge of the weather belonged to that company.

Mr. and Mrs. Philster were most assisted in entertaining by Senator and Mrs. Worthington, the latter presiding over the Log Cabin.

Recorded thoughts of guests and events of the trip.

Just below Ripley the bow of the boat was turned Mayfieldward and the run home was begun with feasting.

Everything savored of cruising and yachting and salt sea air, white umbrellas and souvenirs of the voyage were visible in boats and flags and river crafts which connect with the home of the Laurence.

No novel was the genial Commodore in his effort to give his guests an entertainment entirely new that he used the weather to portray his wish.

At the moonlight he flecked the heavens with clouds; then slowly dispersed these to show the starry heavens; then quickly gathering clouds he gave them orders to rain, with such gentle breeze we thought the dew were falling; then moonlight, and so the varied hues and changes but gave interest and pleasure throughout.

From the Logbook we call these sparks:

The charms of this evening have banished thought, and even at friendship's summons the transient falls to return. Moonlight, water, music and women—friends, what need have we for thought?

The music, the water and all the beauty drew forth from some poetized youth this expression of love to the mistress of his heart, and she evidently was all he saw or heard—

This Logbook blue and friends so true

The moonshine on the tide, but happier far

Is the shining star

Which sits so near—beside.

And in the concluding expression from a most lovely woman's epitomized the thoughts of all the guests—

Where is the heart that would not give years of drowsy days and nights

One little hour like this to live

Full of the bright life's delights?

At 11:30 the Laurence cast anchor and a happy company scattered.
